

FLINDERS

Where to eat, taste and explore...

If you're attending the Mornington Peninsula Agroecology Forum, you're already in a region connected to sustainable farming, aquaculture and local food systems. The forum brings together farmers, chefs and food innovators to explore regenerative agriculture and the future of how we grow, share and enjoy food.

Flinders is a place where these ideas are part of everyday life. Surrounded by farmland and sea, it's home to some of the Peninsula's freshest produce including truffles, mussels and garlic. Many local producers are part of the Mornington Peninsula Produce (MPP) program, meaning their food is grown bred or raised right here.

A visit to Flinders offers the chance to meet the people behind the produce, taste food grown with care and to see what happens when community, place and purpose come together. And while you're here, take the time to explore, there's plenty more waiting beyond the plate.

Cook Street, Flinders

Your first taste of local

Begin your journey with a slow wander down Cook Street, the heart of Flinders. Once a fishing village and trading post, Flinders still holds onto its past, though these days you're more likely to find local sourdough and small-batch coffee than cargo.

Grab a coffee from Flinders Sourdough, brewed with locally roasted Little Rebel beans. If you're hungry a Beach Bun or one of their famous sausage rolls won't disappoint.

Drop into Manyung Gallery for a look at their current exhibitions, or visit Cook Street Collective to discover creations by local artists and makers. Then, pop into The Nook at Flinders, a beautifully curated space filled with homewares, gifts and books including a lovely selection of recipe books celebrating food and cooking.

Just a short stroll aware you'll find the Flinders Golf Club overlooking the ocean with views as impressive as the course.

This is more than a main street, it's a working example of the local economy in action. Take a moment to explore it slowly. Chat to a shopkeeper, ask where the flour in the bread comes from and see how food, art and sustainability come together in everyday ways.

Please note: many businesses in and around Flinders operate reduced hours midweek in winter. We recommend checking ahead for current opening times.

Taste the Peninsula

A place for serious flavour

Mock Red Hill

Mock Red Hill is a fifth-generation, biodynamic orchard in the Mornington Peninsula hinterland. The Mock family produces fresh apples, pears, avocados, cider, juice and freeze-dried fruits.

Visit the Farmgate Cider Lounge for tastings, Johnny Ripe apple pies, and chocolate-coated freeze-dried strawberries. All served in a 1940s cool store, hosted by sisters Mardi and Sheryn.

Main Ridge Dairy

Main Ridge Dairy, set in the hills of the Mornington Peninsula, produces farmhouse-fresh goat cheese on-site. Visit Billies, their cosy tasting room and providore, or relax on the Dairy Deck with paddock views. With picnic rugs, local produce, and dairy goats nearby, it's a paddock-to-plate experience that blends flavour, farming and the Hinterland landscape.

Montalto

Montalto in Red Hill blends vineyard, olive grove and kitchen garden into one immersive estate. Dine at one of three venues—Montalto Restaurant, The Piazza, or the Cellar Door then explore the 1km winding sculpture trail through the estate.

Their award-winning 'Estate to Plate' experience includes a guided garden tour, hosted wine tasting and a seasonal lunch, showcasing the best of the Mornington Peninsula's food and wine.

Fresh from farmgates

Pick up seasonal produce

Flinders Truffles

Flinders Truffles is a family-run regenerative farm producing premium black truffles. A true winter indulgence on the Mornington Peninsula.

Come winter, the farmgate is open most weekends from 10am - 4 pm. It's the perfect place to pick up truffle products or warm up with hot truffle infused soup and triple cheese truffle toasties.

Join a guided truffle hunt with expert scent dogs and uncover the earthy richness of these seasonal delicacies.

Torello Farm

Torello Farm in Tuerong is a working property growing heirloom vegetables, specialty potatoes and tree-ripened fruit. They also raise heritage Belted Galloway cattle and Dorset Down sheep, chosen for their flavour and slow-growing nature.

Visit the farmgate shop for just-picked produce, dry-aged grass-fed beef and seasonal goods from other local farms. Open daily, closed public holidays.

Cape Schanck Olive Oil Estate

Cape Schanck Olive Estate is a family-run grove at the southern tip of the Peninsula, where ocean breezes and a Mediterranean climate create ideal growing conditions. Using mostly organic practices, they produce premium extra virgin olive oil from five European olive varieties, each with a distinct aroma and flavour.

Check their webpage for local stockists.

Coastal highlights

Walk, watch & Explore

Flinders Blowhole

Just off Boneo Road (opposite Razorback Road), the Flinders Blowhole lookout is a short walk via boardwalk and stairs. You'll be rewarded with sweeping views of Bass Strait and waves crashing near Elephant Rock.

 Keep an eye out for birdlife on Little Bird Rock, or even a sea eagle overhead.

Cairns Bay

A local gem between Punchbowl and Keys Road, Cairns Bay is well worth the walk. Search for "Tea Tree Creek & Cairns Bay Walk" to find the small roadside car park just five minutes from The Blowhole and follow the 600m track into Mornington Peninsula National Park.

 Best visited after rain or in cooler months when the creek flows and you chance seeing the waterfall.

Mushroom Reef Marine Sanctuary

Located in Flinders Mushroom Reef is a protected coastal reserve known for its basalt cliffs, reef platform and rockpools. At low tide, the 'mushroom' shape appears, revealing exposed rockpools and marine life.

 Mindful Tip: Leave shells, creatures and rocks undisturbed, photos make the best souvenirs.
